PATH 2019 - 2020 E&F Tunnel Outages

December 20, 2018

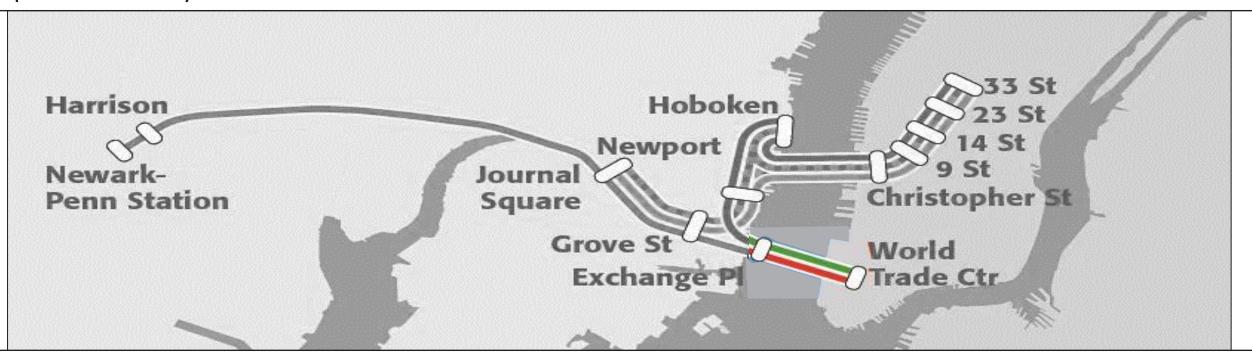

THE PORT AUTHORITY

What is Happening?

Starting January 5, 2019, for 45 weekends in 2019 and 45 weekends in 2020, PATH will be closing Tunnels E and F, which run from Exchange Place to World Trade Center, in order to repair latent damage caused by Superstorm Sandy.

During these weekend closures, the World Trade Center station will be closed to trains & passengers. Exchange Place will remain open for passengers to access rail service to Hoboken and 33rd St, as well as west towards Newark. 33rd St. and all other NY stations will remain open.

Why is this Work Happening?

- During Superstorm Sandy in 2012, Tunnels E&F were flooded with thousands of gallons of water.
- PATH temporarily repaired much of the damage in the weeks following the storm, but the salt has continued to corrode the steel and infrastructure of the tunnels.
- This work will completely replace the damaged infrastructure, leading to fewer failures, fewer delays and creating a safer, faster ride for our passengers.

History of Closures

Reason	Date	Closure
Sandy	2014-2015	NWK-WTC line between Exchange Place and WTC for 45 weekends to power wash and perform temporary repairs.
PTC	2016	33 rd St. line between Hoboken and 33 rd St. for 17 weekends for PTC infrastructure installation.
PTC	2018	NWK-WTC line between Exchange Place and WTC for 2 weekends; 33 rd St. line between Hoboken and 33 rd St for 15 weekends for final testing and commissioning.
Sandy	2019 -2020	NWK-WTC line between Exchange Place and WTC for 45 weekends each year to perform permanent infrastructure replacement.

What is PATH's Mitigation Plan?

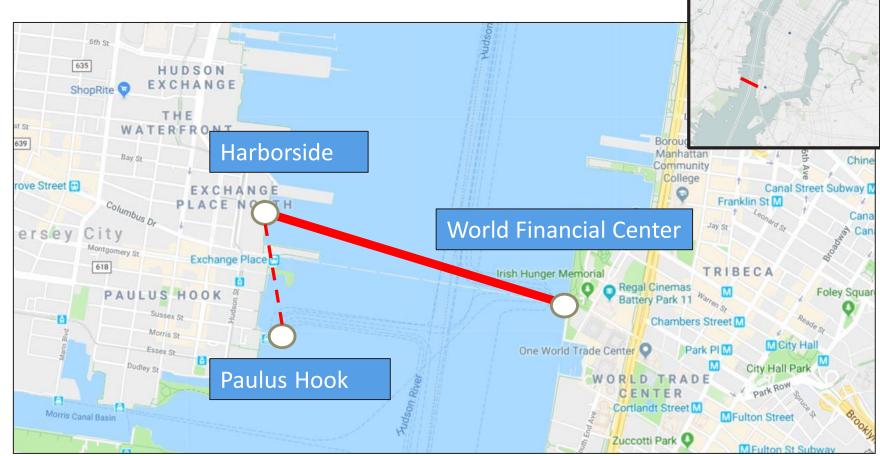

PATH is aware that these closures will greatly inconvenience a substantial portion of its riders. In order to mitigate this inconvenience, the Port Authority reached an agreement with New York Waterways to provide ferry service between Jersey City and the World Financial Center over the course of the outages.

 The service frequency will approximate PATH's daytime service frequency.

- Ferry service will run during all weekend closures.
- PATH cross-honoring operations will be concentrated at Harborside and World Financial Center.

The Customer Experience

There will be several different options for ticketing:

- Passengers entering PATH from an open station will pay their normal PATH fare and ride to Exchange Place. Before exiting the turnstiles, they will pick up a two-trip paper ferry voucher to be cross-honored at Harborside ferry terminal.
- Customers originating at Exchange Place or WTC with a single ride,
 2-trip ticket, or MetroCard will enter the fare zone at WTC or Exchange Place to pay their PATH fare, at which point they will receive a 2-trip voucher for passage on the ferry.
- Customers with a SmartLink card may potentially be able to go to the ferry terminal and tap a mobile SmartLink reader for passage on the ferry.
